3.Security is, personally, the most engaging topic, both because our group has always been foremost concerned with the privacy of our own electronics and because it seems to be the foundation by which all operating systems are designed.